What do you hope to accomplish as a CPC representative to the OpenJS Foundation Board of Directors?
I plan to continue driving strong collaboration between the Board and CPC and push for maintainer- and contributor-friendly policies.

What prior experience and knowledge would you bring to the role?
I've been an elected CPC Voting Member for a number of years. I represent the OpenJSF foundation at the Open Source Initiative, the Open Policy Alliance, and W3C.

Bringing those liaisons closer to the Board would be valuable.

Additionally, I have advised numerous open source foundations and standard organizations in informal and formal roles, pro-bono and professionally.

I also have a long experience as a JS contributor going all the way back to script.aculo.us and Prototype.js, the later of which I co-maintained.

Finally, through my consultancy and prior employment, I worked directly with OSPOs of companies big and small, so I have a good understanding of the perspective of the various Foundation members.

I think my contributions to the CPC speak for themselves.

What do you hope to accomplish as a CPC representative to the OpenJS Foundation Board of Directors?

As a CPC representative, I aim to provide more project-focused context to the Board. I plan to help the Foundation better allocate funds to foster our communities, from events to infrastructure. My focus would be to help rethink OpenJS World / provide an event to showcase the progress of our projects in the last year.

What prior experience and knowledge would you bring to the role?

I served as OpenJS Director for a year. I also have enough familiarity with running a company that translates well with how budgets are allocated. Having been part of the original team that helped with the merger of the JS Foundation and Node.js Foundation in OpenJS, I can also provide some historical context.

Is there any other information that would help the other CPC members evaluate your candidacy?

It takes 3 to 6 months to learn the job and expectations for this role. The impact of our decisions might only materialize after one or more years. I have just started and I'd be glad to serve for a second term.

Do you confirm that you will attempt to attend all OpenJS Foundation Board of Directors meetings?

Yes
